Domaine Henri Giraud

Ay

Henri Giraud is one of the most exciting and pioneering Champagne houses today. Based in Ay, the property's story begins in the early 17th century, when the Hémart family settled in the region. The vineyards were destroyed by phylloxera, but re-established by Léon Giraud – who married into the family at the beginning of the 20th century, and grafted new cuttings onto American rootstocks. The property has stayed in the family ever since.

Henri Giraud has 35 parcels of vines, all of which are Grand Cru – mainly Pinot Noir with a little Chardonnay. Sébastien Le Golvet is in charge in the cellar. All the base wines are fermented in oak, sourced locally from the Argonne forest. The team also uses concrete and terracotta for fermentation, with stainless steel tanks banished from the winery in 2016. Beyond this, the winemaking is as hands-off as possible, with minimal intervention and sulphur additions.

Total production is low, at around 250,000 bottles a year, which goes some way to explaining why the house flies under the radar. Indeed, Robert Parker described Henri Giraud as “the greatest Champagne you’ve never heard of”.

Duménil

Duménil is an independent Champagne House founded in 1874 by Emile-Paul Duménil and has remained in the family for five generations. Today Frédérique, his great granddaughter and her husband Hugues Poret are in charge of the Domaine.

Both passionate about vineyard and wine, they craft their champagnes with the highest respect for their land nestled in the heart of the Montagne de Reims. All vineyards are Premier Cru Classé, spread across villages Chigny-les-Roses, Rilly la Montagne, Ludes and Sacy.

Château La Croix De Grezard

Lussac-Saint-Emilion

Owned and managed for several years by Englishman Bill Boulter Château La Croix de Grézard is a boutique estate of just nine hectares of vines in the Lussac St-Emilion appellation. Here, year after year, he makes excellent, understated wines which fully represent the elegance of right bank Bordeaux. Very definitely an operation that flies under the radar in terms of self promotion they like to leave their wines to do the talking.

Château Daugay

Saint-Emilion

Château Daugay is located at the foot of the southern and southwestern part of the Saint-Emilion. The estate takes its name from geai, meaning “jay” that congregated on the hills and slopes that now bear this name. The inimitable strident cry of these birds with multi-coloured plumage warns their family that intruders have come into the forest.

The domaine was acquired by Christian de Brouard after the Second World War when it became part of Angelus. However in 1985, with the new Saint-Emilion classification, Daugay separated from Angélus and in 2006 passed into the hands of Christian's daughter, Hélène who now manages the estate. She applies the same winemaking methods used by her family for generations.

Château La Tour De By

Medoc

La Tour de By is a family estate of 94 hectares, founded in 1599. The first part of the name refers to the large tower on the property, the de By from the location of their vines - the de By sector in the Medoc. The Pages family, fronted by Marc Pages, bought the estate in 1965.

Since the 1980s, La Tour de By has minimised the use of chemicals and practices ecological methods to manage diseases and parasites.

Château La Galiane

Margaux

Château La Galiane is a family-run property in the Margaux commune of Soussans. The estate's 5 hectares are planted with 50% Merlot, 45% Cabernet Sauvignon, and 5% Petit Verdot. The vines are over 50 years old, among the oldest in the appellation, and some plants are over 100 years old. The high proportion of Merlot is unusual in the Médoc and it contributes to the warm, rich style of Château La Galiane.

Château du Moulin Rouge

Haut-Medoc

This estate has been passed down through 13 generations of the same family and it would be an understatement to say that they were passionate about it. It has a great position just south of Saint-Julien-Beychevelle, they use plenty of new oak and everything is worked by hand.

A favourite of Robert Parker, who in his book 'Bordeaux' describes it as: "... somewhat reminiscent of such wines as Horteveie and Terrey-Gros-Caillou. Of course, du Moulin Rouge is significantly less expensive since it is entitled only to the Haut-Médoc appellation". Elevated to Crus Bourgeois Supérieur in 2020.

Château Reynier

Entre-Deux-Mers

Located in the Entre-Deux-Mers appellation Château Reynier dates back to the 15th century. Today, this small family winery is in the capable hands of Marc Lurton, an international wine consultant and the descendant of a great Bordeaux wine-growing family, and his wife Agnès. Composed of 99 acres of vines planted on clay and limestone slopes,

Château George 7

Fronsac

George 7 is a brand-new boutique Château in Fronsac, the lesser-known right bank appellation neighbouring Pomerol and St. Emilion. Merlot flourishes here on clay over limestone plateau, and wines of Fronsac share similar characteristics with its illustrious neighbours. Owner, Sally Evans has lived and worked in France for the last 25 years, and in 2015 she purchased a dilapidated property with three hectares of 35-year-old Merlot vines, building a new winery and tasting facility.

The experts guiding the estate are Anthony Appollot and Bruno Lacoste (who started his career with Michel Rolland), they also consult for several very well-known left and right bank Châteaux. Committed to sustainability, Château George 7 has shifted from traditional farming to an holistic approach and has the highest level of High Environmental Value certification.

Domaine Pascal Prunier Bonheur

Cote De Beaune

Being the fifth generation of winegrowers in the family, Pascal Prunier took over his father's estate in the 1980s. Today Domaine Pascal Prunier-Bonheur bears the name of both Pascal and his wife, Christine Bonheur. The estate spreads over 8 ha across Saint-Romain towards Auxey-Duresses, Monthelie, Meursault and Pommard. Combining tradition and modernity their wines are known for their elegance and reasonable prices, something that can be difficult to find in Burgundy.

Maison Jaffelin

Beaune

Founded in 1816, the maison Jaffelin house is the smallest of the great houses of Burgundy. The house Jaffelin vinifies and ages his wines in the historic center of Beaune in the prestigious cellars of the Chapter of Our Lady of the twelfth century, maintaining traditional methods.

The Maison is one of the few that presses its grapes in a vertical wine-press; a rare, traditional technique using handmade vats.

Domaine Digiola Royer

Chambolle-Musigny

Founded in the 1930s by Victor Moretti, Domaine Digiola Royer is located in Chambolle-Musigny. The domaine spreads over less than five hectares including parcels in Chambolle Premieres and 1er Cru Gruenchers and Groseilles. Michel Digiola, 3rd generation, took over the estate in 1999.

Following sustainable practices, he avoids the use of chemicals as much as possible and farms his vines at low yields. All wines are matured in oak barrel for six to 18 months. They are beautifully aromatic showing texture and purity of fruit.

Regis Bouvier

Cote De Nuits

Bernard Bouvier took over the vines of his brother Regis in 2019 and now produces these wines along with those of Domaine Rene Bouvier (30 hectares), where he has been winemaker since 1992. His main focus is on Marsannay, an underrated appellation in the most northern part of the Côtes de Nuits.

Bernard follows organic principles and gives great attention to details. Grapes are tasted on the vine to obtain perfect ripeness, handpicked and sorted on receipt at the winery. Very little extraction is done during the maceration so that balance and vibrancy are gently encouraged. As a results, his reds have silky and delicate tannins and the whites are full of verve and retain the freshness of the fruit.

Domaine Seve

Solutre, Maconnais

Domaine Sève is a small but impeccable family property that lies on the steep slopes overlooking Solutre, one of the finest of all the Macon Villages and the very core of the appellation.

Sylvie and Jean Pierre Seve, the current generation, use oak carefully not to create oaky flavours but to allow an exchange between oxygen and the developing wine, with spectacular results. It was Pouilly Fuisse such as this that gained the commune world wide acclaim originally.

Frederic Prain is incredibly passionate about his vines and winemaking. He is an engineer by profession which probably came in useful when in the early 1980's he took over Domaine d'Elise in Chablis. This fascinating pocket size Domaine, which lies at Milly just above the Premier Cru vineyards of the Côte de Léchet, is split almost equally between Petit Chablis and Chablis although both parts share much of the same 'terroir'.

De Boel

Lemps

New kids on the block, Nelly France and Arnaud de Boelly are freshly installed in the Rhône Valley. Although they have been working for other wineries in the area since 2011. The idea of starting their own winery only become a reality with the 2016 vintage.

Their winery is located in Lemps, in the northern Rhône, between Lyon and Avignon and they have vineyards in Saint Joseph, Cornas, Collines Rhodaniennes, Côtes du Rhône Villages Massif d'Uchaux and Sainte Cécile, as well as in Côtes du Rhône. Working organically, with no chemical input of any sort in their vines, the plan is to convert to biodynamic little by little.

Domaine Des Carabiniers

Lirac

The domaine has been within the Leperchois family for many generations with the current generation practicing organic viticulture since 1997. In 1920 the family developed the old stable walls into a cellar in which the horse emblem for the wines was founded.

Their 40 hectares of vineyards can be found on the right bank of the Rhône river, taking advantage of the sun exposure and drainage from the sandy and stony soils. Biodynamic practices, strictly no oak, and a passion for winemaking allow Domaine des Carabiniers to produce some of the best wines of the region. Certified 'Demeter' biodynamic.

M. Chapoutier

With roots dating back to 1808, M. Chapoutier is one of the oldest companies in the Rhône Valley. Yet, its world renown and the quality of wine can truly be accredited to the arrival of Michel Chapoutier in 1990. His willingness to change the set way, thirst for knowledge and open-mindedness, together with his drive to seek, discover and reflect the full potential of our terroirs, letting the soils express their true character, has put our wines firmly on the wine world map. This philosophy is what gives our wines their signature style, forms the basis of the M. Chapoutier ethos and drives our team to reveal the very best of what the soils have to offer.

Domaine De Chasseignes

Sancerre

The Domaine des Chasseignes is a family domaine. Since 2011 Aurore Dezat has been at its head. Before her, Denis, her father, and Claude Dezat, her uncle, had taken over the work begun by her grandfather, Marcel Dezat. Today Aurore Dezat continues the family tradition, but has added her own personal touch.

The Domaine des Chasseignes is made up of 9 hectares, producing Sauvignon Blanc (8ha) and Pinot Noir (1ha). The parcels of land are situated in the commune of Sury-en-Vaux, where they are based on three typical terroirs of Sancerre: limestone, pebbles and flint.

Domaine Berthier

Maisdon-sur-Sevre, Coteaux du Giennois

Jean-Marie Berthier, a highly skilled wine producer from Loire valley, created this estate in the early 1980's. Today, his two sons Clément and Florian have taken over the domaine to produce a distinctive range of wines, covering a variety of styles and Loire appellations as the estate has expanded.

Having previously worked in Burgundy, New Zealand and the USA, Clément and Florian brought a modern approach; looking to produce clean, precise wines which display a distinct sense of their origins. In 1998 the Berthier family purchased the Montbenoit estate in Côteaux du Giennois. Côteaux du Giennois is a tiny 191 hectare region and only a recent appellation, despite archaeological evidence of winegrowing from the 2nd century in the area.

The wines from here can offer a great value and a more fruit-driven alternative to their famous neighbours of Sancerre and Pouilly.

Domaine Amelie & Charles Sparr Wettolsheim

Amélie and Charles Sparr are Alsatian through and through; both come from winegrowing families. The Sparr family has been in the region since 1634, making Charles the 12th generation. Charles always knew that he wanted to be a winemaker and when he was 16 years-old, he saved up his money and bought his first vineyard. In 2010, Charles bought more vineyards from his family. Immediately, he converted everything to organic agriculture and in 2013, Charles, with his wife Amélie, launched their eponymous winery. They now own eighteen hectares coming from both sides of the family, in the heart of southern Alsace where the best vineyards are located.

In the cellar, they work with whole clusters and use a slow and gentle press, which lasts about twelve hours. They leave the juice to settle for two days before racking. Fermentations happen spontaneously and normally last for three weeks, although it varies year to year and from one variety to the next. The wines stay on the fine lees for eight to ten months. No sulfur is used until bottling and so all wines go through malolactic fermentation. Their Rieslings are made in stainless steel and everything else is fermented and aged in oak barrels (225L and 600L). All of the barrels are made by Stockinger in Austria, which the couple prefers because they find that the impact is not too oaky.

Chateau la Mascaronne

Le Luc

Chateau la Mascaronne is located in rolling hills just outside the Medieval village of Le Luc. It lies half way between the Provencal towns of Brignoles and Fréjus, with St Tropez to the south-east and Chateau Miraval close by.

Mascaronne has, if anything, even better terroir, tough and rocky and dramatically difficult to cultivate. The winemaker Laurence Berlemont is particularly keen on indigenous varietals for the white and rosés (with Grenache, Cinsault and Rolle to the fore) but broadens the perspective a little for the reds, which are here dominated by Cabernet Sauvignon, Mourvèdre, Syrah and Grenache. The local geological profile is dominated by rock (and Rolle), much of which has been painstakingly excavated to plant the vines; the average altitude is around 300 metres. All of the fruit is domaine-sourced and estate-bottled. The wines are organic, limited in production and uniformly excellent.

St Sidoine

St Sidoine specialises in fine, focused Provence rosés with an emphasis on delicate, elegant fruit and minerality. The cooperative is well established using modern vinification techniques.

The soils here are poor and stony so that the yields are quite low, but the climate helps. Monsieur Camous, the president of the co-operative, explains, "... because each afternoon we have the wind from the sea which refreshes the atmosphere, the heat is less... the vines have less stress and the wines have a better equilibrium."

Domaine Du Dragon

Domaine du Dragon is a family owned winery nestled in the forested hills just west of Saint-Tropez, in the south-eastern Provence region of Draguignan. The latter takes its name from folklore of resident bishop, Saint Hermentaire slaying a dragon and saving the townspeople.

The estate spreads over 24 hectares of south-facing terraced vineyards on enviable terroir across the hills. The soils are unusually rich in clay-limestone which, combined with the higher altitudes and gentle breezes that brings, lend energy and character to the wines. Many of the vines were replanted in the 1990s, while the cellars were modernised at the same time. The Domaine is in its third year of conversion to being fully organic.

Clos Des Nines

Languedoc

In 2002 Isabelle Mongeart decided to make a lifestyle change and take up a completely different career as a vigneronne. She and her husband Christian Marbler had fallen under the spell of the rather magical place that is le Clos des Nines, a little property of around 10 hectares of existing vines and olive trees, which they named after their three daughters ('nines' in the old 'langue d'Oc').

There are clay-limestone slopes with scattered oyster fossils, and two parcels on red stony soils. The youngest vines were planted in 2008 whilst the Carignan and Alicante are over 80 years old. Yields are naturally low, from 30 to 40 hectolitres/hectare.

Grandiose

Languedoc

'Grandiose' is the name for the series of top quality varietals that are selected and produced under the watchful eye of a group of growers in the South of France.

Their Sauvignon comes from the Gascony region to the west of Toulouse. At harvest time, two pickings are made, the early one gives freshness and the grassy aromas and the second, which is made when the grapes are more developed, adds the richer flavours and the smooth texture.

Chateau De La Terriere

Beaujolais

The Château de la Terrière has stood in Cercié since the 14th century, in the heart of the Beaujolais region. It is one of the oldest estates in the region. After belonging to successive generations of lords, Château de la Terrière was bought in 2003 and important works have been done in the cellars and in the vineyards.

Facing the Mont Brouilly, the castle and the vines of the estate spread southwards over the rolling sandy-granite hills of Beaujolais. With land predominately in Brouilly and Regnié, the estate also manages small parcels throughout the Beaujolais Villages region, including Fleurie and Moulin-a-Vent. 28 hectares are planted to Gamay Noir and Pinot Noir.

Dr Thanisch Feinherb Pfalz

The internationally renowned estate Dr. H. Thanisch Erben Müller-Burgraef is located in the picturesque town of Bernkastel-Kues alongside the Mosel River. Here, estate manager Maximilian Ferger cultivates 40 acres of top notch, steep slope Riesling sites. For generations the name Thanisch has been synonymous for luxurious white wines from the Mosel. In 2015, the winery invested into a state-of-the-art estate building made of heat-insulating concrete which allows optimal storage.

In the subterranean cellar, temperatures remain perfectly steady. During harvest, the wine gently flows into the respective tanks via "Free Flow" from the press hall into the cellar. The building also makes use of natural resources: rainwater is collected in two underground cisterns and use for cleaning while the winery's photovoltaic system generates power.

Sicily

Barone di Villagrande Etna

The Nicolosi family settled on the slopes of Mount Etna in Sicily in the 18th century. They came as migrants armed with a mandate from the church to transform the region from a 'horrid and uncultivated place to a delicious garden'. The family set about doing this, culminating in the 18 hectares of 'delicious' vineyards they tend today.

Current custodian of the family's heritage is Carlo Nicolosi Asmundo, a retired professor of oenology at the University of Catania and a key player in the drafting of the regulations for the Etna DOC in preparation for its ratification in 1968. Together with his son Marco, wife Valeria and daughter Carla, he oversees his vineyards and makes his wines with traditional values but modern methods, together with a keen commitment to sustainability.

Guerrieri Rizzardi

Verona

Guerrieri Rizzardi, based around Bardolino and with estates in Bardolino, Valpolicella, Soave and Valdadige, produce estate grown fine wines. The relationship between their land, heritage and tradition has, for many years, moulded their philosophy, yet they never lose sight of innovation in the quest to produce a better bottle of wine.

Guerrieri Rizzardi make full use of the region's best native grapes (Corvina, Corvinone, Garganega) but also plant other Italian and International grape varieties including Barbera, Sangiovese, Merlot and Chardonnay according to the suitability of the soils. Guerrieri Rizzardi believes in producing wines as an expression of the soil and of the grape variety, thus enhancing the unique personality and character of each wine. Ultimately, their goal is to produce wines of quality that have fruit purity, structure and are true reflections of their vineyards.

A small yield is the cornerstone of their vineyard philosophy and over the years they have reduced to a quantity much lower than required by DOC law. In the cellar traditional practices are combined with modern wine-making techniques but with the minimum level of intervention. The work done in the vineyard vastly reduces what has to be done in their cellar. In their vineyards Guerrieri Rizzardi respect the balance of nature. They use natural compost to fertilize the vines and keep the immediate environment in the tradition of natural plant diversity – in today's language, biodiversity.

Cantine Di Marzo

Tufo

In 1647 Scipione di Marzo fled his hometown and settled in Tufo where he built his winery.

In 2009, the di Marzo estate has passed under the control of the di Somma family, direct descendants of the di Marzo, the founders of the estate. The goal is to bring it to a level that reflects the four hundred year old tradition of one of Italy's oldest wineries, the first to have ever produced the Greco di Tufo wine.

The estate owns 23 hectares of Greco and Aglianico vineyards located around Tufo in the villages of Santa Lucia, San Paolo and Santa Paolina at an altitude that varies from 250 m to 500 m above sea level. The soil is mostly clay and limestone on gentle slopes oriented mostly south west.

Chianti

Located in the cooler climate of Castellina, in the south-west of Chianti Classico, Nardi Viticoltori is family run and one of the youngest wineries in the region. Following re-planting of the vineyards in 1999, brothers Giacomo and Angelo Nardi took over the estate from their father in 2012. In homage to their great, great grandfather 'Baccheri' they decided to produce and bottle a range of estate grown wines. Today they produce approximately 28,000 bts per annum (half their production) and sell the remaining grapes to prestigious Tuscan estates, including Antinori. The vineyards benefit from a southeast exposition and are spread over 10 ha of clay rich soils. Yields are kept low to produce grapes with great concentration of fruit and the winery is in the middle of the vineyards, so the grapes are pressed with no delay retaining freshness and purity of fruit.

Tenuta Agricola Montauto

Maremma

The Maremma is often referred to as the 'Wild West', both in terms of its landscapes and its winemaking. While in Northern Tuscany, the Etruscans were making wine thousands of years before, the Maremma used to be a wild, swampy backwater and viticulture was only introduced to the region in the 19th century. Riccardo Lepri's family has produced artisan wines for nearly sixty years at the Montauto estate, nestled 200 metres above sea level on a clay rich soil. The vineyards benefit from a cooling sea breeze and large diurnal temperature. This unique microclimate coupled with Riccardo's practices of minimum intervention, hand harvesting and use of natural fertilizers help produce wines that are clean, fresh and mineral, showcasing his unique terroir with balance and elegance.

Adegas Pombal a Lanzada

Adegas Pombal a Lanzada is a small family owned and operated winery drawing from two hectares of vines from some of the finest terroirs of Rías Baixas. The name derives from a long stretch of beach, which the winery overlooks called 'La Playa Lanzada'. The family has been growing grapes and producing wine from their vines for generations, they have only recently made the wine commercially available to the general public.

All of the vines are cultivated organically and hand harvested before undertaking fermentation in stainless steel tanks using indigenous yeasts. Malolactic fermentation is prevented from taking place in order to preserve the purity of fruit, with six months ageing on the lees to provide extra depth and complexity.

Bodegas Miguel Merino

In 1990 Miguel Merino began to realise his dream to create his own winery. Starting with a restored farmhouse, he built a small vinification plant and barrel-ageing cellar, and started to buy grapes grown on small plots near Briones to produce well-made, modern wines. Miguel is passionate, charismatic and a treasure trove of knowledge about Rioja and now owns and runs one of the smallest, youngest and most prestigious wineries in Spain. Try the unique 'Mazuelo de la Quinta Cruz' one of the very few 100% Mazuelo (Carignan) made in Rioja.

Blai Ferre Just Priorat

Blai Ferre represents Priorat's new generation of winemakers. Growing up around vineyards in the area, he went to learn his trade at the top wineries of the region, including Alvaro Palacios.

When he was only 22 years old, he discovered an old plot of Garnacha and decided to make his own wine. Hard work and perseverance paid off and today he takes pride in making wines that are full of concentration with elegance. Located near Gratallops village, in the southwest of Catalonia, this winery was the very first to be classified as a DOC Priorat.

Bodegas Ochoa Olite

Situated in Olite, the wine capital of Navarra, Bodegas Ochoa is a family winery which strives to convey the spirit, passion and dedication of over 160 years of vineyard ownership in every bottle they produce. The Ochoa family has a long tradition of winemaking, indeed Javier and his daughter Adriana are both seen as pioneers for the Navarra region with several of their research projects resulting in improvements to the DO.

With the utmost care in the vineyard and skilful winemaking, Bodegas Ochoa continues to set the standard for quality wines in the region with wines that rival some of the best in neighbouring Rioja.

Spain - Campo de Borja

Bodegas Aragonesas

This innovative and ambitious organisation lies in the Campo de Borja region just to the South of Rioja and Navarra. The idea is that they select the best of the wines from the local Cooperatives and then 'finish them off' (blending, oak ageing, filtering and bottling) at Aragonesas before putting them onto the market for the benefit of us all. Garnacha (Grenache) is the predominant grape and the results being achieved by this imaginative process are truly impressive.

Quinta Do Avelino

Named in honour of the oenologist's grandfather, Avelino, Quinta do Avelino was created. The family's history of winemaking goes back more than a hundred years with the fourth generation now in charge. Their only wine is made from 100% Treixadura, a white grape variety found in the Ribeiro region, grown on nearly three hectares cultivated naturally and hand harvested. The grape must is drawn and fermented at very low temperatures to keep the aromatic concentration at its most pure and is then aged on the lees.

Founded in 1984, Valduero was one of the first ten wineries established in Ribera Del Duero and is family-run, owned and managed by sisters Yolanda and Carolina Garcia Viadero. Yolanda was the first woman to produce wine here and she remains an active member of the board of the appellation. Higher altitude vineyard sites were chosen for their quality potential in preference to those on the lower ground, with this focus on quality in the vineyard resulting in Valduero consistently producing some of the region's best wines.

Bodega Convento San Francisco

Bodega Convento San Francisco was founded in 1998 and stands on the remains of an ancient Franciscan Convent, dating back to 1265 in the village of Peñafiel in Valladolid. In this glorious setting they have renovated the old convent buildings and adapted them for the production of very special wines. 11 hectares certified in Organic Agriculture, in the municipality of Pesquera del Duero, divided into 3 plots with different soils and altitudes.

There are another 2 hectares in Fuentenebro planted in 1920 and 1940, at 970 metres of altitude on sand and reddish clay soils with moorland stones and quartz. They control a further 25 hectares together with trusted winegrowers, where much of it is very old vineyards made up of small plots located on hillsides of clay, sand and limestone soils.

Bojador Vidigueira

Bojador is the personal project of Pedro Ribeiro. Both Pedro and his wife Catarina Vieira were winemakers in other Portuguese regions, but decided to come to Vidigueira, in Alentejo, to produce wines that are true to the historical traditions of this land. Selection of the grapes, low-yields, careful pruning, and early harvest are some of the procedures they follow but, the main innovation happens in the winery.

As a tribute to the region they ferment some of their wines in impermeable pots called Talha, where both wine and skin must remain in contact until November 11th (St. Martin's day). The resulted wines are mineral, fresh, elegant and above all, authentic.

Somontes Casa Da Passarella Larainhos

Casa da Passarella is a 150 year old winery founded by Amand d'Oliveira who made his fortune in Brazil before coming to the Dão region. After building a beautiful villa in Lagarinhos, he decided to surround it by an impressive 200 hectares of vines. In 2007, Ricardo Cabral took over the estate and his first priority was to rebuild the winery as well as focusing on growing indigenous grape varieties.

He hired consultant winemaker Paulo Nunes who produces wines that stand out for their freshness, mineral character and longevity. Paulo was one of the first to recognise the advantages of the higher altitude vineyards situated in the Serra d'Estrela (700-800m high compare to the other Passarella's vineyards at 400-600m).

South Africa - Elgin

Oak Valley

Oak Valley wines are produced within the highly acclaimed cool climate Elgin Region, statistically the coolest wine region in South Africa. A feature of the Oak Valley terrain is a sequence of rolling hills set in an undulating countryside. There are currently 4 vineyard sites, 30 hectares is currently planted, mainly to Sauvignon Blanc, Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. The oldest planting still in the ground dates back to 1992.

The Oak Valley soils are developed from ancient Bokkeveld shale that underwent intensive weathering and are therefore acidic. The soils are predominantly comprised of reddish-brown, iron-rich gravelly material, underlain by structured clay, with soft weathered porous shale still deeper down. This allows for moderate growth in the early season combined with some protection against heat and ground shocks during ripening. Quentin Gobregts succeeded Pieter Visser as the Oak Valley winemaker in 2014.

South Africa - Franschhoek

Boekenhoutskloof

Boekenhoutskloof is one of the most celebrated of all South African Wineries and was voted Winery of the Year 2012 by the influential South African journalist John Platter. Created in 1776 and situated in a remote corner of the beautiful Franschhoek valley, the estate's recent fame dates only from 1993 when new owners completely restored the vineyard and established new plantings of varietals such as Syrah, Cabernet Sauvignon, Grenache and Viognier.

The driving force here is winemaker Marc Kent, a maverick genius with an unswerving commitment to the highest quality in all that he does. The winery is better known for its reds, especially Syrah and Cabernet, but also makes a stunning white from the Semillon grape amongst a small range of whites.

South Africa - Darling

Groote Post

When Peter and Nick Pentz set out to establish their vineyards, they identified 1000 hectares as potential sites for quality vineyards. However, they eventually settled on the best 140 hectares available and have 107 hectares planted to date. Vineyard plantings are all on the south-facing upper slopes of the Kapokberg in the Darling Hills overlooking the icy Atlantic Ocean. Altitudes of the vineyards vary from 200m to 450m above sea level.

Soils are deep with good water retention qualities. No irrigation is used and annual rainfall averages 480mm per annum. Viticultural consultant Johan Pienaar has overseen the vineyard developments. When the initial plantings were ready for harvesting, they were sold to nearby Darling Cellars, whose cellar master, Abé Beukes, always vinified their grapes separately, until the blending stage. The wine exceeded Peter and Nick's expectations and the decision was made to fast-track the construction of a cellar in time for the 1999 harvest. The 300-ton capacity cellar was built in a restored historic fort (guarding post) on the Klawer Valley farm. Their aim is clear – to maximise the potential of their outstanding terroir and produce wines of the highest quality.

Mauricio Lorca

Lujan d Cuyo

At the age of 21 Mauricio Lorca was all set to begin studying medicine and become a doctor. Around this time, however, a representative from the Mendoza School of Enology came to give a presentation to Mauricio and his fellow students. From that moment onwards, much to the bemusement of his family, Mauricio decided to dedicate his life to making wine.

His career began at the world famous Catena Zapata winery; two years later he joined Michel Torino in Salta in the far north of the country. Later, aged just 24, he returned to Mendoza as Head Winemaker at Luigi Bosca. Four years later he took a similar post at the giant Finca la Celia winery. In 2002 he established his own winery in Perdriel in Lujan d Cuyo, 25km from the centre of Mendoza, Bodega y Viñedos Mauricio Lorca, where he produces a wide range of wines.

Zuccardi

Alberto Zuccardi was the first man to plant vines in Maipú, Mendoza. Today, his grandson Sebastián Zuccardi continues this entrepreneurial spirit alongside his son.

The focus here is firmly on expressing the identity and personality of the multiple high-quality plots they have at their disposal. Their single-varietal estate wines are brilliant examples of this: primarily made from Malbec and Cabernet Sauvignon. As the third generation of this winemaking family, Sebastián's goal is to better understand the region Zuccardi calls home. Since 2008, the winery has embarked on a research and development phase to study Zuccardi's unique terroir. In Sebastián's own words, the goal is "not to look for perfect wines, but rather those that express the place, the region."

Las Estelas

The story begins in the early 1940s when Estela's grandfather, Dr. Hector Perinetti, son of an immigrant from Piedmont, purchased a piece of land in Tupungato and planted Semillon. (At that time this area was considered too cold for red grapes!) When aged just two years old his eldest son, Hector Junior, named the vineyard – Finca Mangato.

As these vines became old and increasingly non-viable in the 1990s, Estela and her mother – Estela Armando, also a winemaker! – decided to grub up the Semillon to plant red varieties such as Malbec, the Cabernets Sauvignon and Franc, and Merlot and Syrah, and these vines form the basis of Las Estelas. Today the goal is "not to look for perfect wines, but rather those that express the place. Estela spent more than two decades heading up some of Catená's most high-profile winery projects and she has been very much in demand as one of Mendoza's leading consultants since. Las Estelas is her baby!

Vina Von Siebenthal

The story and history of Vina von Siebenthal remain closely associated with that of Mauro von Siebenthal. Mauro was a lawyer by profession in Switzerland. At the age of forty, he decided to leave his job and pursue his love for winemaking. Vina von Siebenthal released its first vintage in 2002. In current times, Mauro and Matteo von Siebenthal, his son, own and work with 32 hectares of land. They expanded the plot with immense efforts and hard work by implementing organic agricultural practices and techniques.

Today, Vina von Siebenthal is one of the most notable and prestigious wineries in its region. Vina von Siebenthal works with a philosophy that resembles that of the chateaux at Bordeaux. They aim to blend the aspects and processes of the cellar, wine estate, and vineyards to create a beneficial system. The winery aspires to facilitate and enhance all the elements that can aid in creating world-class wines.

Caliterra

Caliterra was established in 1996 as a partnership between the Robert G. Mondavi family and Viña Errázuriz, who sought to realize their shared dream of producing high quality wines that reflect the potential of the Chilean nature, terroir and fruit. Caliterra Wines are the modern and elegant result that reflect the particular characteristics of the terroir. Chile has a privileged geography for the growing of vines, and no region has been distinguished as a producer of world-class wines as the Colchagua Valley, especially for its high quality red wines.

Chile - Curico Valley

La Ronciere

Viña La Ronciere was founded in 1949, but only much later in 2017 did they start their venture at Idahue Estate. This project pioneered grape growing in cooler Licanten, a coastal sub-region of Curico Valley. This sub-region has been recognised as a new geographical denomination (D.O.) in Chile. So far, La Ronciere owns the only vineyards established there.

Uruguay - Canelones

Vina Progresso

Gabriel Pisano was born into one of Uruguay's most famous wine families and his fate was happily sealed upon graduation from the Vine & Wine School in El Colorado. But Gabriel was not content to simply follow in the family tradition; he wanted to travel and make wine elsewhere in order to put his family's wines into context and to push the boundaries of what could be achieved in Uruguay.

His experience includes winemaking stints with Danie de Wet and Beyers Truter in South Africa, David Ramey in California, Michel Rolland in Chile and, excitingly, at the magnificent Mas Doix in Spain's Priorat region

Australia - Adelaide Hills

Sidewood Estate

Sidewood Estate is a privately owned vineyard, nestled in the Adelaide Hills, the heart of Australian cool climate wine. Owen and Cassandra Inglis purchased the estate in 2004 with a desire to create stylish and elegant wines, focussed on quality and underpinned by impeccable winemaking.

All of the grapes are carefully handpicked from selected rows across the 300 acre estate before being handed over to internationally acclaimed winemaker, Darryl Catlin

New Zealand - Marlborough

Auntsfield

Auntsfield's premium single vineyard wines from New Zealand's famed Marlborough district are some of the finest and best priced cool-climate southern hemisphere renditions of Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc and Pinot Noir. Auntsfield actually dates back to 1873 (positively ancient in New Zealand wine terms), when Muscat was the grape of choice for the visionary David Herd who made wines for 50 years until it reverted to being a sheep station.

The Cowley family (originally from Dundee) bought it in the early 1990s, when there were no grapes to be found, and it wasn't until they researched the history that they realised they had acquired Marlborough's very first vineyard; a commercial winery 100 years before any others. It's a great story, but only because the wines live up to the grand historical significance. The Cowley's planted distinct blocks with Sauvignon Blanc, Chardonnay and Pinot Noir, ensuring that each varietal was particularly suited to its designated block.

They now have 40 hectares on north-facing Greywacke rock slopes overlaid with fine clay soil. Making good wine requires good foundations and, in this case, a terroir that imparts a fine minerality with wonderful texture and definition. Auntsfield's Sauvignon is a classic high-end Kiwi style, with gooseberry, fresh-cut grass and lush passion fruit flavours. The estate's Pinot Noir is complex and concentrated, while their Chardonnay boasts citrus and tropical fruits and refined minerality.

New Zealand - Canterbury

Pegasus Bay

Pegasus Bay is Canterbury's top winery and can challenge – even match – the very best from elsewhere. In 1985, Ivan Donaldson established what is now Pegasus Bay's home vineyard with wife, Christine and their four sons in the Waipara Valley, initially converting the home's garage into a winery.

The story to be told here is one of Riesling and Pinot Noir – their two flagship varieties. The Sauvignon Blanc is also something to write home about, made in the more traditional French style, with Semillon blended in. Pegasus Bay has been rated as one of New Zealand's top five producers by influential US critic Robert Parker and named Canterbury's top fine wine producer by well-known NZ wine writer, Michael Cooper.

New Zealand - Central Otago

Te Kano

‘Te Kano’, the Maori word for seed, is owned by the Lloyd family who are committed to rejuvenating the land through sustainable practices. Acquired in 2015 and standing up to 320m above sea level, the estate has a variety of terrain and soils which produces their unique and expressive wines.

Te Kano has three different vineyards of Northburn, Jerome and Eliza, the latter two named after beloved family members.

New Zealand - Waipara

Mount Brown

Lying in the foothills of Mount Brown in Waipara Valley this abandoned wine estate was only rediscovered 16 years ago and it is something of a success story. Waipara has a greater variation in temperature between night and day than more northerly Marlborough, yields are much lower, and this valley is fast establishing a reputation for quality.

Aromatics such as Pinot Gris, and also Pinot Noir, are perfectly suited to Mount Brown’s small sheltered stony site and winemaking here is of a very high order.

USA - Mendocino

Masút

Masút Vineyard & Winery was founded by brothers Ben and Jake Fetzer with a focus on producing estate Pinot Noir. They are the grandsons of Barney Fetzer who, together with his family built Fetzer Vineyards. In the early 1990's their father, Robert Fetzer, was eager to begin a new chapter, and he purchased a 1200 acre property and named it Masút, a Native American word meaning "dark, rich earth".

They began to plant Pinot Noir in this new mountainous area, eventually establishing their own appellation Eagle Peak, Mendocino County in which they are the sole winery. The vineyard is 35 acres of Pinot Noir straddling the western mountains at the headwaters of the Russian River. Each year the goal is to produce one wine of the highest quality and expression of Pinot Noir from the site.

USA - Oregon

Phelps Creek

Phelps Creek Vineyards, a limited production, boutique winery located in Hood River, Oregon (Columbia Gorge AVA) embraces certified sustainable agricultural practices while crafting Pinot Noir, Chardonnay, Riesling and Gewürztraminer.

Like his father, founder Robert (Bob) Morus flew in the US Air Force and eventually became an airline pilot. In 1989, Bob searched for a place to move west and raise his family with the ambitious dream of planting a small vineyard. Seeking perfect land near his flying base of Portland, Robert envisioned juggling a flying schedule and working in the vineyards—life in balance. Afraid of Oregon's reputed dampness, the Morus' explored east of Portland, in the scenically stunning Columbia River Gorge. At that time, four wineries spread throughout the area, joined by several other independent vineyards. The county of Hood River impressed the couple the most. There they located a 30 ha site, perfect for grapevines on steep south and east slopes, holding volcanic soil and a magnificent view of Mt. Hood.

In 2007 Phelps Creek initiated a relationship with Alexandrine Roy, a fourth generation winemaker from Gevrey-Chambertin. Alexandrine contributes her Burgundian techniques to the grapes of Phelps Creek.
